SELF-GUIDED TOUR

1. Coulter Welcome Center. Welcome to Carnegie Mellon University! We are excited to have you visit our campus today for the Self-Guided Tour! You may also use the online mobile-friendly map in addition to, or in place of this printed map.

2. Tepper Quad Building, is a 315,000 square foot state-of-the-art building, home to the Tepper School of Business, the Coulter Welcome Center, fitness center, dining locations, JPMorgan Chase & Co. AI Maker Space, and the Swartz Center for Entrepreneurship.

3. Gates Centers for Computer Science and Hillman Center for Future Technologies are home to the School of Computer Science and Computational Biology Department. These Gold LEED Certified Centers were made possible by lead gifts from the Bill and Melinda Gates and the Henry L. Hillman foundations.

4. Warner Hall. This building is home to the Office of Undergraduate Admission on the 2nd floor. The HUB and Enrollment Services also resides here on the lower level, which would be where you get your Student ID if you choose to attend CMU.

5. Purnell Center for the Arts is home to our School of Drama, the nation's oldest degree-granting drama program, and includes state-of-the-art performance and education facilities like the Philip Chosky Theater and the Regina Gouger Miller Gallery.

6. Pausch Bridge connects one of the university's fine arts buildings, Purnell Center, with the home for computer science, the Gates & Hillman Centers. The bridge was named after CMU alumnus and professor Randy Pausch who inspired millions through his "Last Lecture."

7. The Fence sits in the middle of campus and acts as a rotating billboard for student groups. Painting The Fence is a time-honored CMU tradition. It may only be painted by CMU students between midnight and sunrise, in it's entirety, and using only paint brushes. To keep the message, The Fence must be guarded by two students.

8. Doherty Hall contains some of the largest lecture style classrooms and lab spaces for our Mellon College of Science students, in addition to lab and studio spaces for departments like Engineering, Chemistry, Biology and Art.

9. Hamerschlag Hall is home to Electrical & Computer Engineering. The rotunda is one of the most iconic images on campus while also boasting a living roof.

10. ANSYS Hall is a four story, 36,000 square-foot mixed-use building that incorporates TechSpark, a maker assembly space with access to the outdoor Maker Courtyard, student collaboration space, classrooms and offices

11. Alan Magee Scaife Hall of Engineering is a new 85,000 square-foot building comprising labs, a drone arena, offices, classrooms, and a café. The building is the home for the Mechanical Engineering Department.

12. Baker Hall is one of the oldest buildings on campus and connects to Porter Hall via a long, sloped hallway. Baker is home to the Dietrich College of Humanities and Social Sciences.

13. Hunt Library opened in 1961 as the university's first dedicated library building and was a gift from Roy and Rachel Hunt. It's the largest of the four libraries on campus. It also houses facilities for the Integrative Design, Arts and Technology (IDeATe) program.

14. College of Fine Arts Building is an architectural creation of Henry Hornbostel, the college's first dean, and is home to three of its five schools: architecture, art, and music -- as well as four BXA intercollege degree programs: the bachelor of humanities & arts, science & arts, computer science & arts and engineering & arts.

15. Posner Hall houses the Student Academic Success Center that focuses on creating spaces for students to engage in their coursework through options like academic coaching, subject-specific tutoring, effective communication strategies, and accommodations for students with disabilities. It's adjacent to the Hall of the Arts, which is home to some teaching and rehearsal spaces for the School of Music.

16. Margaret Morrison Carnegie Hall hosts facilities for the schools of Architecture and Design. Originally named Margaret Morrison Carnegie College, it opened in 1906 as a vocational school for women.

17. Highmark Center for Health, Wellness and Athletics is a 160,000 square-foot building opened in the Fall 2024 which unifies robust health services, contemporary facilities and educational programs that support students' minds, bodies and spirits in a comprehensive care model. It also includes a modern athletics facility.

18. The Hill is a residence hall neighborhood that offers first year living. University Housing consists of 26 residence halls, apartments, and house communities throughout campus.

19. Gesling Stadium is home to our football and track and field team which are part of the 19 DIII varsity athletics teams we have on campus. This location typically holds the university's commencement ceremonies.

20. Jared L. Cohon University Center is our student union where the community can take advantage of the fitness facilities, catch a show at the black-box theater, visit the chapel, post office, ATM or get lunch in one of the many eateries. The Cohon University Center (CUC) is home to The Center for Student Diversity and Inclusion that offers resources to enhance an inclusive and transformative student experience focused on access, success, campus climate and intergroup dialogue.

21. University Store includes branded university merchandise. While the store does not carry traditional textbooks, they can assist students that need help finding course materials. Located on the lower level of the store is the Art Store that carries art supplies for everyone from Art and Architecture students, to casual hobbyists.

22. Walking to the Sky is a 100-foot-tall, seven-ton sculpture created by internationally renowned alumnus Jonathan Borofsky. The installation was made possible by Carnegie Mellon trustee and CMU alumna Jill Kraus and her husband, Peter. According to Borofsky, the sculpture is a "celebration of the human potential for discovering who we are and where we need to go."
